What Is Microwave Drying?

The chemical raw material silicon carbide graphite polysilicon dryer has good uniformity and low temperature. During the microwave heating process, the part of the chemical raw material silicon carbide graphite polysilicon with high water content absorbs more microwave power than the part with low water content. Therefore, the chemical raw material silicon carbide graphite polysilicon dehydration dryer drying equipment can achieve good drying uniformity, and the temperature of microwave drying materials is 85-100 degrees. The continuous production efficiency is high and the time is short. Safety, energy saving and environmental protection. The chemical raw material silicon carbide graphite polysilicon microwave dewatering dryer drying equipment occupies a small area. Because the chemical raw material silicon carbide graphite polysilicon drying equipment can be produced rapidly and continuously, the equipment occupies a small area. Advanced technology, instant start and stop, no thermal inertia. The chemical raw material silicon carbide graphite polysilicon microwave dehydration dryer drying equipment can be equipped with an assembly line with superior performance. In addition, because microwave drying does not need to provide a heat source, it only needs to heat and dry the chemical raw material silicon carbide, graphite and polysilicon, so the equipment has no thermal inertia and can be turned on and off immediately.

No.	Features Of Silicon Carbide Graphite Polysilicon Microwave Dryer
1	The microwave drying time is short and the speed is fast. Microwave drying is completely different from the traditional drying method process that makes the dried material itself become a heating element with poor thermal conductivity, microwave drying can reach the heating temperature in a short time, so as to achieve rapid drying.
2	Uniform microwave drying. Regardless of the shape of each part of the object, microwave heating can make the inside of the object evenly penetrate and absorb electromagnetic wave energy, so the heating and drying uniformity is good, and the phenomenon of uneven drying does not appear.
3	Microwave is energy-saving, environmentally friendly, and highly efficient. Because water-containing substances easily absorb microwave and generate almost no other loss except for a small amount of transmission loss, so it has high efficiency and energy saving. It saves more than 1/3 of infrared heating.
4	Advanced microwave technology. Start and stop immediately, as long as the microwave power is controlled, termination can be achieved.
